The Easter Story - an interactive display

By Jan Hawkins EVENT

Christine Hansen had an idea. She wanted Cromwell's Presbyterian Church to highlight to the local community the true meaning of Easter, from a Christian point of view.

She felt that for some people, the meaning has been lost, and it has become just another long weekend.

Christine put the idea to church member Steve Phipps, who was keen. From there, other people kept joining the team. Les Dick brought in poles from his farm. Alan Buxton created a sculpture of Roman Soldiers. A donkey and a cross appeared.

As Jaimie Phipps says, "It was a real group effort from church members"

Jaimie created a graphic novel window display in the Bannockburn Room of the complex, facing out to a courtyard.

Mount Michael Central Otago Autumn Golf Classic

By Jan Hawkins EVENT

The 14th Year of the Mount Michael Central Otago Autumn Gold Classic concluded in Central Otago last week, and tournament organisers PaR nz Golfing Holidays, on behalf of the five Central Otago golf clubs of Alexandra, Arrowtown, Cromwell, Queenstown and Wanaka, have declared it a great success.

The event was established in 2007 with the aim of showcasing that there are many great golf courses in our region, other than Jacks Point and The Hills.

It is sponsored by Mount Michael Wines and Asahi Breweries.

Now one of New Zealand's largest multi-course amateur tournaments, it has proven to be extremely popular with men and women kiwi golfers from Northland to Invercargill.

This year too, saw the return of a few Australian friends from pre-covid tournament days.

For the programme, five rounds are played consecutively across the various golf courses, and entries have been restricted, on a 'first come, first served' basis, so that 100 golfers play on any particular course per day.

The tournament has wonderful exposure for the high-quality golf courses of the region, as each player plays at all five venues.

Local members ensure that the players have a great social time, so they return to their home clubs recommending the region as a golfing destination.

For many years the local clubs managed all the organisation of the event, much of this led by John Roche, of Alexandra, but it has now been handed over to PaR nz, who specialise in golf events in New Zealand and Internationally.

Denise Langdon, of PaR NZ says,

"It is a wonderful regional event, with each Central Otago club showing the best of hospitality."

ANZAC DAY Monday 25th April, 2022 and an update on the graves cleaning project

Editorial Supplied COMMUNITY

The ANZAC Day service will be in the Cromwell cemetery on Cemetery Road at 09.00hrs. On completion of the cemetery service the detachment will then move to the Cenotaph at the Memorial Hall on Melmore Terrace for a service at 10.00hrs, all are welcome.

The RSA team have been busy since last November, cleaning the graves and headstones of our former service members. The team have between them contributed more than 200 hours of effort and there is still a little more to do!

In total there are 150 graves or headstones that required cleaning, some of the results are very pleasing.

It was really nice to have received various messages of support and assistance from the community for the graves project, which was warmly received by the team.

A special mention in dispatches goes to HireKING who provided us with some equipment for one of our longer working days.

Another mention goes to Josie and the Team at Highlands, Josie came to see us when we had a big team in the cemetery and then offered to shout us morning tea which was very quickly accepted.

The RSA section in the cemetery is completed and ready for the services on ANZAC day,

Over 350,000 men and women left our shores to do their duty and their service and their sacrifice should never be forgotten.

"This is the first year we have tried this," she says, "so we kept it simple. Next year, we'd like to see it grow, with some inside displays and developments, but for now it is all outside in the church grounds, for the whole of the Easter holiday period. We wanted families and individuals to feel welcome, and comfortable just walking around and viewing the various display stations."

The interactive part of the display is that each station has a multi-lingual QR code. Children can view the displays and get a little extra information, in any of about 20 languages, by uploading the codes. They can also obtain colouring-in sheets.

It is a safe, outdoor, family-friendly activity, so show your appreciation for the group's efforts by checking it out sometime over the Easter period.

Change of Format for Bannockburn Arts Festival this year

By Jan Hawkins EVENT

The Arts Central sub-committee organising the Bannockburn Arts Festival Across the Bridge have made the call to change the format for 2022.

This year, they will host an Art School in Bannockburn, offering week-long classes in the visual arts - drawing, creativity development, watercolour painting, acrylic painting and photography - creative writing, writing your family story and poetry.

There will also be a wine masterclass tutored by our local winemakers, and a cook's tour.

The school is scheduled for Monday, October 3 till Friday, October 7, and will be followed by the now well-established Cairnmuir Woolshed Art Exhibition, spotlighting the professional artists of Bannockburn.

After having to cancel the wonderful Art Festival planned for 2021, organisers have decided that for this year an art school format, with restricted numbers and featuring tutors from the Central Otago Region, would be a safer format for this year.

The plan is to return to a festival format in 2023, and then make the decision whether to perhaps alternate between the formats going forward.

Jan Hudson, sub-committee member, says she is excited by the quality of the tutors they have managed to attract.

"We are keen to keep up the momentum of the last ten years for our annual celebration of all that Bannockburn has to offer.

This year is the perfect opportunity to give people a chance to explore their creativity, do something new and get five days of focused absorption and relaxation."

The full programme and registration details are currently being finalised. If you would like to be added to the mailing list for the event, please contact janhudson@xtra.co.nz.

ANNA HARRISON
CHAIRS COMMENT

Stunning autumn days with a bite of cold in the morning and sunny afternoons signal that we are coming to the end of a very long and challenging school term. I for one am very ready for a break from managing staffing levels through the Omicron outbreak. I sincerely hope that the holidays will provide a circuit breaker and we will see cases for our community slow and reduce when we come back for term 2.

Nearly 50% of our staff and our students have been affected by Covid since the beginning of March. Most people who start out as household contacts later test positive. Many of these on day 7 or 8 of isolating. It has been a real challenge for households where children have tested positive a week apart and parents have had to take multiple periods of leave to be at home with their children while they recover.

It has also been a huge challenge to keep our school fully open with many staff away sick and isolating. Classes have been split, children have worked with different teachers and different groups of children. I've even had to dust off my skills and tackle the chalk face.

There have been some positives to come from the ways we have been working. Splitting classes and having plans in place to keep learning going for our students has led to genuine collaboration between teachers. Teachers are taking collective responsibility for all the students in their team. They are getting to know them better and making sure their programmes and practices are shared so that other teachers can maintain learning for all the children.

Equally children are demonstrating resilience and adaptability. They are comfortable across a range of classes with different teachers and groups of children that they might not usually be with. They are managing different routines and learning environments with aplomb.

I know schools are not unique in having to deal with the challenges of this outbreak. Managing staffing levels and the impact on businesses has also been huge. I'm sure as in my situation there have been some positives to come from challenging situations like staff stepping up and taking on extra responsibilities and supporting one another. We all need to remember to reach out and give ourselves permission to accept support when we need it and we will get through this together.

Family Fun Day to celebrate 131 year-year-old church building

By Jan Hawkins EVENT

The Cromwell Methodist Church building was officially opened on 17 April 1891, which makes it 131 years old on Easter Sunday.

The Otago Goldfields Heritage Trust (OGHT) has been based in the building since 2006. It was unable to celebrate the 130th last year, due to covid restrictions, but now has a 'Family Funday' planned.

OGHT treasurer Odette Hopgood-Bride says, "We are planning a wee party to celebrate the birthday. It's the plainest of the four churches in the block, but she has some great heritage."

The land was purchased in 1890. William Gere and Leslie Arthur were the stonemasons of this and many other of the heritage buildings in the region. William married one of the Marsh Sisters, so there is a connection between this and McNulty House.

Leslie Arthur is the great-grandfather of former prime minister of New Zealand Helen Clark.

The Trust has been preparing to buy the building, situated on the corner of Erris and Donegal Streets in Old Cromwell, over the last five years, and Odette says, "We really do need to preserve it, and keep it for the community. We've put a lot of work into it."

OGHT Treasurer Odette Hopgood-Bride in front of the heritage building. Photo Jan Hawkins

The Trust has been granted $50,000 from Central Lakes Trust, and will be in full fund-raising mode to complete the renovation and preservation. Earthquake strengthening will be a major component of this.

The Fun Day will provide a chance for the public to see through the old church, and the plan is to offer it to the community for meetings and functions. "As we are just coming off the covid cobweb we want to show what a good facility it is."

There will be horse and cart rides, gold panning, devonshire teas and a treasure hunt as part of the celebrations, and a chance to peruse the Cavalcade movies and displays - a great Easter Sunday family activity.

Putting the gloss back on the Big Fruit

Editorial Supplied COMMUNITY

The Big Fruit sculpture refurbishment in Cromwell is on target to be finished by next week.

Central Otago District Council contracted Naylor Love of Queenstown to carry out the sculpture repaint at Cromwell's entrance.

Work started last Thursday and was expected to take about 10 days.

Central Otago District Council Parks and Recreation Manager Gordon Bailey said he hoped work would be completed by Monday weather permitting.

"Weather is the challenge."

People would be seeing the same sculpture but revitalised, he said.

"The fruit colours will be refreshed and more vibrant." The paint treatment method being used would minimise fading by the sun and extend the frequency the fruit needed to be repainted.

Two bids were received in response to the advertised tender, and both were within the allocated budget for the work.

The cost is just under $80,000.

Region's best put to the test

Editorial Supplied COMMUNITY

The best carpentry apprentices from throughout the Central Otago and Lakes region went hammer to hammer last weekend in Cromwell, as they vied to be named winner of the NZ Certified Builders Regional Apprentice Challenge.

One of the apprentices was a young woman, and one of the judges was Cromwell builder and previous winner, Brie Cook.

Brie won the Regional Apprentice of the Year title in 2021 and went on to compete in the national competition.

She says the experience gave her confidence and really brought home to her that she had what it takes to be a good builder.

"Being up at the nationals and meeting other tradies, both men and women, highlighted how much I've learned, all the skills I've developed, how much I enjoy building and that I am good at what I do."

The experience also cemented Brie's resolve to encourage other women into trades, and she was pleased to see that one of the apprentices competing was a woman.

Stefanie Panko is an apprentice at CBG Quality Construction. She said the competition was a lot of fun, and she enjoyed testing her skills against other apprentices over the eight-hour challenge. Stefanie said she first got into building because she thought it was a valuable skill to learn.

"I was only going to do it to learn to make stuff at home, but I enjoy it so much, and there's just so many directions you can a building career, I'm here to stay."

Business owner Clint Gollop says Stef joined them late last year, after a long search for the right candidate.

"It makes good business sense to bring different strengths to the table.

Stef carries a lot of the values and skills that we need in the team.

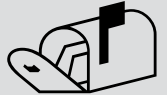

"There's a real misconception out there that women not being as strong as men is a hindrance, but I disagree with that. Being a good builder is about so much more than physical strength."

Brie says Stefanie's fourth placing was testament to her skills.

"Stef's work through the day clearly demonstrated her knowledgeable, methodical, organised approach to working. She was well-prepared, had studied the plans, developed a strategy and even built a jig to ensure accuracy."

Stefanie had lots of support through the long day of competition. Her boss, partner, son, workmates and friends were all there to cheer her on.

letter to the editor

Dear Editor

The Cromwell RSA will again commemorate Anzac Day recognising the sacrifice made by service men and women since our nation began. Traditional Anzac Day commemorations have for the past two years been affected by the Covid pandemic. This year it is intended to conduct a commemoration from being a more comprehensive event to a modest event because of the Covid restrictions.

The Cromwell RSA will commemorate Anzac Day by conducting a Poppy Laying service at the Cromwell Cemetery at 9hrs. Followed by a memorial service at the Cromwell Cenotaph at 10hrs.

This year there will be no services at Lowburn nor Bannockburn.

We truly regret this decision, made in part because of government regulations, and sincerely appreciate the participation of our local communities in past years services and hope that we will receive that same response in the years to come. Lest we forget.

Denis Ryan Cromwell RSA President

Community Police Report

Editorial Supplied LOCAL

As anyone can see around Cromwell at the moment there are a lot of things happening. Roundabouts, roading and the amount of new builds springing up in sub divisions is unbelievable.

All this activity means that there are a number of people here that aren't local and transient in their nature so this weeks column is all about keeping your belongings safe.

Please make sure that when your car is left unattended, that valuables are concealed and if left overnight locked. If we remove the temptation and put up barriers to make it harder to get in, this usually prevents you becoming a victim, losing your stuff and having in-depth discussions with your insurance company.

The same goes for your house and contents. Make sure doors are locked and windows are secure whenever you leave home. This will stop over 90% of would be burglars gaining access and again will prevent a lot of heart ache.

We are fortunate to live in a spectacular part of the world and unfortunately we have become a little bit complacent around security. The amount of times Police have arrived at a burglary scene here only to be told "No the house/car wasn't locked. I haven't had to do that before in the 5/10/20 years I've lived here" is quite staggering. We have been lucky in this regard in the past but things are changing in society and a little bit of this undesirable element is on its way..

Till next week, be safe, feel safe!

Life on the Bench and Thereafter a U3A Cromwell Presentation

By Jan Hawkins EVENT

Rosemary Riddell, author of To be Fair: Confessions of a District Court Judge, will address the next meeting of the Cromwell University of the Third Age meeting in Cromwell Town and Country Club.

Rosemary will introduce the audience to a day in the life of a judge, to show what it is like to deal with offenders in the criminal court and families in the family court.

She has a wealth of stories to share and some strong views on laws that she considers unjust, as well as her take on societal issues.

Rosemary graduated with a law degree from the University of Auckland at the age of 40. From 1993 to 2006 she worked as a lawyer in Auckland and Dunedin, before being appointed as a District Court Judge to Hamilton, where she was based for the next 12 years.

Her stories are peppered with humour and compassion, and she is open about her own family tragedy.

Rosemary is a lively, entertaining speaker, and she talks of the things she could not have mentioned while being a judge. University of the Third Age is a world-wide organisation which began in France in the 1970's.

It aims to provide an opportunity for people within our community, particularly the retired, to listen, think about or question information from speakers who have specialised knowledge of a topic.

Cromwell U3A's Helen Dunbar says, "We are delighted that Rosemary has agreed to speak to Cromwell U3A. Her talk will be thought-provoking and we know there will be plenty of interesting discussion about the law and its injustices."

U3A is brought to Cromwell through Central Otago REAP, and details are:
