

Promising Young Players Programme at Cromwell Golf Club

Coach Willie Moore, with some of the junior squad: Dallas Paranihi, Flynn Stuart, Jackson Hughes, Angus Drinnan, Rocco Shaw, Cooper Rawcliffe, Harry Simpson

By Jan Hawkins SPORTS

A junior golf development squad, hand-picked by Cromwell's golf professional Willie Moore, of Moore Golf, has enjoyed a focused programme in the school holidays.

The coaching, provided by Willie, involved Cromwell College students from Years 7 to 13. They were part of a group of young players, most of whom had received regular coaching from Moore Golf, and were chosen because of their talent and potential in the sport.

Willie says, "Around a dozen Cromwell local junior golfers were selected for the development squad to get some extra tuition to improve their skills

Lily and Lottie are Jumping for Cancer

By Jan Hawkins COMMUNITY

Sisters Lily (11) and Lottie (8) Faulkner are jumping out of a plane for a cause close to their hearts. They have taken up the Cancer Society's 'Jump for Cancer' challenge and on 14 May at 2 pm they will be at NZONE Skydive Wanaka, ready and eager to take the plunge.

Lottie says, "This is the first big fundraiser I have been involved with. Me and Lily have to raise $1000 each. So far we have raised $1,200 between us. We only signed up to do this a week ago so it is amazing how much money we have raised so far."

Lily explains why they were attracted to taking on this fundraiser, saying, "We sadly lost our Grandma at 46 years old to breast cancer and our mum had to undergo a preventative prophylactic mastectomy last year to reduce her risk of breast cancer. It will be great to know that this money raised will help support people battling cancer."

Mum Jenna, who went through the series of procedures of the mastectomy last year, says, "By fundraising for Jump for Cancer, it makes sure no one goes through cancer alone by providing free specialist advice and support for cancer patients, transport to treatment, and accommodation when undergoing treatment far from home. As well as funding breakthrough cancer research."

Jenna adds, "Our beautiful girls are so pumped to do their bit for Cancer NZ, as we all know someone who is struggling with this horrible disease."

Rachael Hart, Cancer Society Otago and Southland chief executive, will also jump, and is terrified. The Faulkner girls are not. Lily thinks it look 'so exciting', while Lottie says, "I cannot wait to jump out of a perfectly good aeroplane and fly. I would be keen on doing a few somersaults in the air if they let me."

The girls are not aware of anyone else in Cromwell taking up the challenge.

Participants get to decide which area will benefit from their funds and Lily and Lottie have chosen Central Otago.

Those of us who are not keen on jumping out of a plane at 9,000 feet can still support by clicking onto the following links, which lead to the girls' fundraising profile pages.

All participants really enjoyed the opportunity and are very thankful to Hector Egger for funding the program."

Squad member Flynn Stuart says of the programme, "It was fun. I had not been involved in the regular coaching, but I learned a lot. My putting is now a lot better. I am intending to go to Willie's coaching sessions now."

The programme was sponsored by Hector Egger New Zealand. Hector Egger are relatively new to the region having recently opened their new Cromwell factory which specialises in the manufacture of high-tech timber elements and prefabricated timber panels for residential and commercial building construction. Their partnership with Swiss company Hector Egger Holzbau AG has brought world leading IP and experience to New Zealand and their company now employs over 40 full-time staff throughout Central Otago.

Director, Tristan Franklin, says, "We are very pleased to sponsor the Junior Golf Development Squad. I enjoy playing golf myself. Having represented New Zealand as a junior squash player, I know the value of being part of a structured development squad."

Both Tristan and business partner Stephen Mäusli look forward to watching this talented group improve their skills in the game of golf.

The Cromwell Community Pantry needs YOU!

Henry Johnson Yr 7 Cromwell College, Sophia Kimpton Yr 6 Cromwell Primary, Karen Palmer Cromwell Community House, Andrew Ede, teacher Cromwell Primary School looking to the future Photo Supplied

By Jan Hawkins COMMUNITY

Cromwell Community House are asking for locals' help to revamp the Community Pantry, after it was destroyed by fire in January.

Cromwell Community House exists to foster community and social development by empowering individuals and groups through advice, support and resources. One of their services is the community food bank.

The original pantry was enlarged, relocated and updated late last year at the initiative of two Cromwell Primary School students, Henry Johnson and Sophie Kimpton. They understood that there are people in our community who do not always have enough to eat. The pantry was there for everyone to give or take food and was very well utilised.

They gained the help of their teacher, Andrew Ede, and the support of the MENZ Shed, Guthrie Bowron who supplied the paint, and funding successfully applied for to Connect Cromwell Winning Ideas.

The location, in the alleyway behind Cromwell Community House, has been selected because it offers privacy and shelter.

All involved were devastated at the destruction in January, and are very keen to see the pantry re-established. The intention now is for it to be a more permanent, low-maintenance structure.

Cromwell Community House is asking locals for any ideas for designs, supply of materials and labour.

Cromwell College

Thank you to members of the Cromwell RSA and President Denis Ryan for another fitting and respectful ANZAC Day Service held in the holidays. It was a pleasure accompanying our Prefects in representing our kura (school) and acknowledging the young men of Cromwell and the wider district who died in conflict in the world wars. Thank you to our Head Students, Hannah Bisset and Tom Coudret, who read the 'list of the fallen' with grace and respect.

Prefects supporting this year's community Anzac Service

Last term saw all schools in Cromwell managing the latest iteration of COVID. From Week 5 last term we were regularly covering between 8 to 10 staff a day who were unwell, household contacts or COVID cases. This peaked with one day having 17 staff away. On average there were about 150 students away each day. What made this manageable was the fabulous support from staff, students and families for our rostering home of a year level each day. Students impressed us with their maturity and sense of responsibility coping with numerous relievers and maintaining progress with their learning. With the support of Phil Ryan and Cromwell New World, each student appreciated receiving a small Easter egg in the last week as a thank you.

The first week back for Term 2 has seen student attendance improve and around 30 students and 6 staff affected as contacts or cases. While there is still uncertainty with further 'waves' predicted we are hopeful that we will be able to keep full programmes going this term.

Winter sport will be in full swing by next week and I wish all players, teams, coaches, managers and parents all the best for an enjoyable and successful season. Through the goodwill and support of staff, clubs and parents a large number of our students get to benefit hugely from playing in teams that are well coached, organised and resourced. These opportunities make a difference in so many ways for our rangatahi (young people) and teach lessons about life, teamwork, winning, losing, commitment and that there is always reward for effort. Ngā mihi nui and thank you for this support.

ANNA HARRISON CHAIRS COMMENT

I am writing this fresh out of the May meeting of the Cromwell Community Board and reflecting on the business of the board as I write.

Today's meeting was very much marred by Covid-19. Three of our 7 members are currently positive cases and a fourth was sick with a head cold. Luckily three of our sick members were able to attend the meeting online and two made it right to the end. It is really important the voices and perspectives of all our members are heard when we make decisions for our community.

It is election year for local government and time for members of our community to think about standing to have an opportunity to be part of making decisions for Cromwell's future. I have learnt so much over my two terms on the board and I am grateful for the opportunity that Cromwell has given me. Please get in touch if you are considering standing and want to know more about what the role entails.

We had the privilege of hosting the Cromwell and Districts Promotion Group in the public forum to make their case for funding in this round of our promotions and community grants. This hardworking committee bring us fabulous community events and we are proud to support their work. The plans for this year's Light up Winter event sound exciting and I am looking forward to seeing the new ideas come to fruition.

We also had money available in our community grants but didn't receive any applications in this round. I know there are community groups looking for funding for events and projects and want to encourage applications for the next round that closes at the end of June with funding to be decided at the September meeting of the Cromwell Community Board. Further information about grants and how to apply can be found on the Central Otago District Council website <https://www.codc.govt.nz/services/funding-grants>.

Allocation of grants is only a tiny part of the work of our board but it always feels good to contribute to projects, events and activities that make our town such a great place to live.

'Rhodo man': Gordon Bailey honoured with a RNZIH fellowship

Editorial Supplied COMMUNITY

Central Otago District Council Parks and Recreation Manager Gordon Bailey has been awarded a fellowship with the Royal New Zealand Institute of Horticulture (RNZIH).

He is one of five horticulturists to be awarded a fellowship for his service to horticulture.

Mr Bailey joined the Central Otago District Council in 2018, and already had a career spanning more than 30 years in parks and recreation in the southern regions of the South Island.

He is involved in other projects outside his council role, which include identifying and saving some rhododendron species from extinction in their native habitat, as part of an international, co-ordinated effort.

Under his chairmanship, the Taranaki-based Pukeiti Rhododendron Trust Board has taken the lead on this initiative. Pukeiti is owned by Taranaki Regional Council and is one the Southern Hemisphere's largest collection of rhododendrons. In the past five years, the Pukeiti Ex-Situ Rhododendron Conservation Strategy has been established. 'Ex situ' is a botanists' term to ensure species are not lost.

"The basis of this strategy is to determine what rhododendron species grow or have at one time been grown in New Zealand; are they endangered or extinct in their native habitat," Mr Bailey said.

"It means obtaining propagation material, growing that on and distributing to identified sites to grow. It is hoped longer term that we can then supply plant material back to where they used to grow in the wild."

Rhododendrons are a very large genus of 1,024 species of woody plants in the heath family (Ericaceae), which are either evergreen or deciduous and found mainly in Asia – Sumatra, China, Vietnam, Sikkim, Nepal and India.

The plants grow in a variety of conditions, from the forest floor in the tropics to more than 4500 metres above sea level in the Himalayas.

"They grow well in Central Otago and most established gardens would have at least one plant – probably a hybrid rather than a species."

A big rhodo fan, the plants have taken Mr Bailey to China six times in the past 30 years.

"I like them not just for their flowers but also their leaves, bark and new growth. Having said that, I like all plants."

Traditionally, the institute's awards are made in a ceremony associated with the Annual General Meeting of the Institute.

However, because of Covid-19, it is likely that the AGM for 2022 will be virtual, in which case, the awards ceremony for Mr Bailey to get his fellowship will be held in 2023, the centenary year for the RNZIH.

Beauty Over Time - a Hullabaloo Exhibition

Ocean by Jennifer Hay Photo Supplied

By Jan Hawkins

EVENT

By sharing a beautiful studio space in the Stewart's General Store in Bannockburn, two Central Otago artists have found a common theme and produced a shared exhibition for the Hullabaloo Art Space.

Kristin O'Sullivan Peren is a multidisciplinary artist whose practice responds to the extremities of land, language and light. She grew up in Rotorua, spending large periods of time in Central Otago, where she now lives. She has exhibited locally and internationally, in public spaces and contemporary galleries in Ireland, Australia and the UK.

Her last public show was participating in Auckland's Botanical Gardens at Sculpture in the Gardens. Her large-scale sculpture titled S: like Paradise integrates a unique process pioneered by Kristin using LED lights and fibreglass.

Jennifer Hay has a background in Art History and curating. She is influenced by traditional craft technique and uses antique beads, up-cycled from discarded textiles to create contemporary beaded jewellery pieces that reference the past.

Kristin says, "The Stewart Store is our shared space, Our starting point is we are both makers, who respect each other's art practices, and the studio is a place where we 'make'. We are often not there together, as I travel to the studio and Jennifer is local, but when we are there on those special occasions together, it's magic.

As well as Jennifer's artistic ability, her ability to extend, collaborate, stand in silent support, and engage in Critical Art theory, is priceless."

Jennifer is a member of the Hullabaloo co-operative, and Kristin is an invited artist for this exhibition. The exhibition reflects on the nature of time and how discarded or abandoned objects and stories can retain an aura of beauty.

Jennifer's new collection of adornments uses antique and vintage beads, referencing the past, and explores the boundary between contemporary fashion and art jewellery. Using French micro metal beads, handwoven or braided into neckpieces, lariats and earrings, Jennifer makes jewellery that is luxurious and a joy to wear.

Kristin's mezzotints also evoke the passage of time through intricate and dedicated mark making. A series of photographs, Rubbishegium, chronicles her collection of rubbish and leftover detritus, transformed through the camera lens into a world of vivid colour and movement.

The viewer is transported back to the past, to reflect on the new life given to forgotten objects, and of the talent and mastery of the artists' work. Most of all though, it is a delight to just enjoy the beauty and vibrancy of the exhibition.

Albi & the Wolves coming to Cromwell

By Jan Hawkins EVENTS

Albi & The Wolves are coming to Cromwell, promising to 'set fire to the stage and fill hearts with hope with their energetic and relatable alternative indie folk songs'.

Ian Thomas, of The Hook NZ, says, "They carry the folk label but this is folk that someone has tinkered with under the bonnet."

The band consists of frontman Chris Dent, lead vocals and acoustic guitar; Pascal Roggen on electric violin and backing vocals; Michael Young on double bass and backing vocals.

They are a band about creating a community, where everyone can enjoy their uplifting, joyful sound.

This has taken them to a broad selection of festivals throughout New Zealand, including the Auckland and Wellington Folk Festivals, CubaDupa, and Coro Summer Fest.

The band won the Best of Folk Artist 2018 at the New Zealand Music Awards for their debut album One Eye Open - a taste of this album's sound is available on youtube

The trio has a huge sound that is simply created, and leaves audiences feeling joyful and coming back for more. Their concert, brought to Cromwell through Arts on Tour and ArtsCentral, is part of an extensive 22-venue tour of New Zealand, from Coromandel, down through Canterbury to Gore, the West Coast, Nelson, and finishes in Kauaeranga Hall, Thames.

It's the Lake Dunstan trail's first birthday, and last week's exciting announcement the trail has been awarded Great Ride status means it is set to provide even more benefits for the district.

Central Otago Queenstown Trail Network (COQTNT) Trust chair Stephen Jeffery says the award is a significant achievement for the region, meaning the trail will be promoted widely.

"Even the Trust (COQTNT) is staggered by the trail user numbers. The economic benefits for Central Otago in Lake Dunstan's first year of operation is calculated to be in the millions.

Additionally, cycling and walking offer considerable health benefits, and are considered low-impact tourism."

General manager at The Gate in Cromwell, Glen Christiansen, agrees the trail is a huge asset for the community and couldn't have come at a better time.

"I am a huge fan of the trail; what an asset.

"I would be on it, either running or biking every week. As a business, we have enjoyed looking after the trail users.

"I congratulate all those involved and look forward to supporting its managed growth."

COQTNT executive trustee Janeen Wood says it is wonderful to see community organisations including Rotary, Lions, the Lake Dunstan Charitable Trust and the Mōkihi Reforestation Trust working to enhance the environment around the trail.

"It's fantastic to see local people working to beautifying the environment along the Lake Dunstan trail, improving this wonderful asset that in turn benefits us.

"Coming up, there will be many opportunities for people to be involved with the next stages also, from sponsoring bridges through to helping with native plantings.

"As a Great Ride, the trail will bring even more people here. People that want to be here, stay here and enjoy all we have to offer."

Winter is starting to kick in now and the temperatures are starting to drop in the mornings so now is a good time to get the car all sorted for it's winter duties.

If you can't get into a garage there are a few basic things that can be checked before setting off on your journey. Tyres are a big one as they are the only thing keeping your vehicle on the road and yet they only get checked once a year at wof time. New tyres have 7mm tread and normally get replaced when they were down to two, however they are much less effective at that stage and could be the difference between crashing and not. Wiper blades are another that go unnoticed until WOF time so for the sake of $25 just get them replaced.

Please make sure also that the windows are clear as that's a $150 fine.

Let's just take the time and make sure the car is up to speed before we set off

Funding for Trades Apprenticeship Training welcomed

Editorial Supplied COMMUNITY

Otago Community Trust has funded over $1.6 million in support of a wide range of community projects in the Trust's first funding round for the new financial year.

For Trades Apprenticeship Training Trust received a $48,000 grant to assist with the costs of supporting an additional 18 to 20 young people into a variety of business operations in the Dunedin and South Otago region.

Developed over 15 years ago, the For Trades Apprenticeship Training Trust is focused on supporting practical-minded young people pursue their vocational ambitions.

Grant Harrex, Director of Workforce & Business Development for Business South said the For Trades Apprenticeship programme has experienced strong demand and growth over the last few years.

"It is predicted that 61 young apprentices will be engaged by August 2022, we are thrilled with this number, but it does put pressure on how we successfully manage and fund the apprenticeship programme."

The grant from Otago Community Trust will go a long way towards keeping apprentices connected to work, connected to training, and successfully gaining qualifications and confidence, within a supported environment, said Harrex.

Otago Community Trust chief executive Barbara Bridger said the Otago Community Trust has supported the For Trade programme for several years but was pleased to be able to increase funding this year.

"The For Trades Apprenticeship grant aligns well with the Trust's new strategic focus of increased access to opportunities and gave rise to a strong case for support."

A $4,100 grant to the Lake Ōhau Community Hub Charitable Trust was also awarded in April. This grant will support the cost purchasing trees and shrubs to donate to the Lake Ōhau community to assist in making a start on the beautification and revegetation of Lake Ōhau after the devastation of the October 2020 wildfire.

Otago Community Trust grants manager, Sue Stewart said it was pleasing to be able to support new groups like the Lake Ōhau Community Hub Charitable Trust apply for funding support.

"A key strength of the Otago Community Trust is the wide variety of projects we fund. This is a very deserving project and one which will see our funding go a small way in enhancing the social well-being of the community after the traumatic wildfire.

The April funding round also saw Otago Community Trust continue its commitment to providing multi-year funding to several well-established social service providers.

Trust chair Diccon Sim explains that Otago Community Trust first approved multi-year funding to a small number of established social service agencies in 2019

These initial three-year grants represented a significant shift for the Trust at the time

Of course, multi-year funding has ongoing cost implications, and it is important to think carefully before tying Trustees' hands for the future, said Sim.

"For this reason, Otago Community Trust remains cautious in its approach to multi-year funding - with such funding only looked at after very careful consideration of the longer-term implications including other likely financial commitments of the Trust."

"At the same time, taking a longer-term funding approach gives additional certainty for providers and enhances their ability to focus on service delivery to those that need it most," said Sim.

Anglican Family Care, Methodist Mission Southern, Otago Youth Wellness Trust and Presbyterian Support Otago will receive multiyear funding for a further three years to support the services and programmes that they implement across Otago.

In total Otago Community Trust gave $1,625,202 to 31 community organisations in April 2022.

Lot 47 Combined Rotary and Lions Community Fund of $250,000. APPLY NOW

Last year Cromwell Rotary and Lions Clubs together with the community built a beautiful 3 bedroom 2 bathroom home designed by local architect, Jessie Sutherland of S A Studio. The build was broken into four stages with Southern Foundation, Brett Dawson Builders, Cromwell Building Contractors and Versatile Cromwell each taking charge of a stage.

In November Lot 47 sold at auction resulting in an amazing profit of $824,436.88 being made.

This money was raised by this community. Therefore, Lot 47 Combined Rotary and Lions Community Fund wants to spend the money raised by the community, on the community.

Are you a registered charity or a local community organisation within the Cromwell basin? Are you wanting to undertake a community project, but you need more funding?

Then this fund may be your answer. No matter how big or small your community project apply to this fund. Minimum applications of $25,000.00 but up to $250,000.00 are being sort by Lot 47 Combined Rotary and Lions Community Fund.

If your organisation is starting preparation work on a community project or in the final stages but need more funding, then apply to Lot 47 Combined

Rotary and Lions Community Fund. Applications close on 31 May 2022.

The outcome of all applications will be determined by the end of July 2022.

CEO's appointment extended

Editorial Supplied COMMUNITY

At the Central Otago District Council meeting on Wednesday 9 March, Council unanimously agreed to reappoint Sanchia Jacobs as its Chief Executive Officer (CEO), extending her appointment to 2025.

"Sanchia has led Central Otago District Council extremely well through some of the most challenging times in its history, where we have faced unprecedented growth, the largest infrastructure projects ever undertaken by Council, the significant challenge of multiple reforms coming out of Central Government and the effects of the pandemic on both the organisation and the community," said Mayor Tim Cadogan.

"Sanchia has led a transformation that has improved the Council in many significant ways, both in our culture and in how we serve our community."

"At a time of huge change in local government, having consistency at the top of the organisation is crucial," said Mayor Cadogan. "Outside of Council, Sanchia has been appointed as President of Taituarā, the national membership organisation for local government professionals, a position which gives her, and Central Otago, connections into the highest levels of Central Government thinking."

letter to the editor

Dear Editor

Thank you

A huge thanks to all the volunteers, RSA members who manned Fresh Choice, Paper Plus and The Kitchen collection points. And a huge thanks to the Cromwell Newcomers group who manned New World.

Thank you very much indeed.

Ruth Carroll

Art Event - Supporting the National Heart Foundation

John and Tasha Olszen wish to offer a big thank you to all those who attended this event!

It was a pleasure to host you in our home.

Whilst Covid reduced the numbers, the Foundation have expressed their gratitude for the $521.00 raised through the event.

We plan to host the event again next year.

The Cromwell Community Patrol sincerely thanks Mark Leyser and BP Workshop Cromwell for the donation of a dash-cam for the patrol vehicle. Mark presented it to Fraser Scott the patrol leader. The previous camera malfunctioned.

Mark and BP Workshop Cromwell provide a lot of support to the Community Patrol. In addition to BP Workshop Cromwell, other major on-going sponsors are AMI (contributes to insurance), Cromwell Self Storage (secure storage for the patrol vehicle), Summerlands Cromwell (fuel) and the Central Lakes Trust (contributes to operational funding). A number of other businesses, organisations and individuals provide support also.

Without the support of the Cromwell community it would be difficult for the Patrol and its 25 volunteer patrol members to help our police team to keep our community safe.
